TORONTO, ON & SANTA BARBARA, CA - Jan. 18, 2012 – SiriusXM Canada (TSX: XSR) and Sonos today announced the availability of Sirius on Sonos systems in Canada. Now, Sirius subscribers have an exciting new way to wirelessly stream their favourite Sirius programming all over the house and control it all from the palm of their hand.

The Sonos Wireless HiFi System provides Sirius subscribers with a convenient way to enjoy Sirius' music, talk, and sports programming in any room of the home. By simply and wirelessly connecting any Sonos player to a broadband Internet connection, Sirius subscribers can instantly access more than 100 Sirius channels featuring commercial-free music plus sports, talk and entertainment. XM Canada subscribers will have access to XM Radio streaming on Sonos later this year.

Sonos connects directly to Sirius via the Internet, eliminating the need for an antenna, satellite radio hardware, or even a PC. With a Sonos controller in hand, Sirius radio lovers simply pick a room, pick a channel and hit play – in any room in their home. They can even stream different stations in different rooms at the same time. As part of the out-of-the-box experience, Sonos customers will automatically receive a complimentary 30-day trial to Sirius.

To access Sirius channels on Sonos, Sirius Satellite Radio subscribers can simply enter their online username and password on their Sonos system to start streaming all their favourite content. Sonos users that aren't current Sirius subscribers can take advantage of a free 30-day trial. To activate the trial, users must visit the Music Menu on their Sonos unit, select More Music and then select the Sirius Trial.
